

Suburban Garden Club hosts 'Grow for Show'

This month, the Suburban Garden Club of Cheshire will host Ronnie Schoelzel, who will give a talk and demonstration, "Grow for Show", on how to grow, prepare, enter, and transport horticulture specimens for a flower show (cut and container grown). A past president of the Federated Garden Clubs of Connecticut, Schoelzel also will relate her talk to the National Garden Club handbook for flower shows. The program is scheduled for Wednesday, May 18, at the Cheshire Senior Center, 240 Maple Avenue. The event is open to the public, however, a small admission fee is asked for non-members. The doors open at 7 p.m. for refreshments with the program beginning at 7:30 p.m. Program changes can be found online at cheshiregardeners.org, the SGC Facebook page or call program Chair Alberta Valerio at 203-272-1533
